

LEISURE, PEOPLE, PLACES, SPACES: 3rd ANZALS Conference, July 1997, University of Newcastle , Newcastle, NSW

- Proceedings edited by David Rowe and Peter Brown, Department of Leisure and Tourism Studies, University of Newcastle. OUT OF PRINT
- Resource exchange processes during social interaction in leisure and non-leisure - Chris Auld
- Leisure constraints of women who have a child with an intellectual disability - Laurence Bathurst
- Inter-organisational relations in regional tourism: an exploratory study - Barry Bell and Mike Watkins
- Women's experiences in national parks agencies: how women make choices in a male culture - Rosemary Black & Penny Davidson
- The Uluru Climb: from attraction to detraction - Terry J. Brown
- Leisure and Community development practices: women claiming public space - Josephine Burden
- Potential of intrinsic leisure motivation to moderate the impact of stress on health - Denis Coleman
- The cost-quality relationship in Australian public sports and leisure centres: conventional wisdom revisited - G. Crilley, D. Murray, G. Howat & I. Milne
- Volunteers in Sport: 'obligeers' and leisure careers - Graham Cuskelly and Maureen Harrington
- Tourism in Protected areas: foundations for sustainability - Lee Davidson
- Women, nature and spirituality: a qualitative study exploring women's wilderness experience - Rebecca J Fox
- Analysing Leisure experiences through 'memory-work' - Bevan C Grant and Lorraine Friend
- Sustainable tourism development in natural areas in Australia: industry responses and associated issues - Robert Harris
- Leisure at work - the 'casualisation' of men's clothing - Ray Hibbins
- Leisure, masculinities and migration - Ray Hibbins
- A betting paradise: controlling Victoria's electronic gaming industry - Russell Hoye
- Climate Change and tourism: market research in the Australian Alps - Urs Koenig
- Leisure participation: the influence of gender - Lee Krahe
- Valuing the Benefits of recreation, arts and parks - Erica Law, Elisabeth Vaneveld, Marilyn Waring
- 'No more smooth-soled leather shoes!' - women negotiating in their search for adventure recreation - Donna E. Little
- Leisure and quality of life: the contribution of person-centred and place-centred leisure attributes to the quality of life of the individual - Kathy Lloyd
- Adaptation to everyday life of the unemployed - Francis Lobo
- A video to facilitate collaborative learning - Jim Macbeth
- An approach to multiphasic analysis of wilderness experiences - Norm McIntyre and Alan Cattermole
- Towards a Model of lifestyle identification - Sally Methven
- The adventure experience paradigm - where do adventure tourists fit in? - Damien Morgan, Kevin Moore and Rick Mansell

- Preliminary investigation into women prisoners in New South Wales: a leisure perspective - Peta Mudge and Diane Pattinson
- Leisure in a global future - Bob Neumayer and Suzy Gatuso
- When government shifts the goal posts we play a different game - Lyn Parker
- General practitioners' beliefs toward health and physical activity - Richard Pringle
- Leisure time physical activity modification as an agent of public health policy - Jenny Ross
- The Australian canon in leisure, tourism and sport studies - David Rowe
- Service quality measurement in the leisure industry: have we gone far enough? - Christopher Schmidt
- Sport and women from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds - Tracy Taylor and Kristine Toohey
- Using relationship marketing as a new approach for understanding the customer/leisure service provider relationship - John Tower
- Quality management systems: a means of meeting customers' needs - Christine Williams
- Touring the Dreamtime: marketing Aboriginal culture in Australian tourism - Heather Zeppel